Tribute from Ken & Helene Olma & family

Relation: Friends from the past

To all of the Watson family;

We are so sorry to read of Drew's passing & would like to send our condolences to all of you. The fun times we all had together & even though many years have gone by, we still remember those days at Birkenhead Lodge!

Also, we always recall that fabulous rack of lamb dinner we had at Drew's home in North Vancouver. What a fun night that was!

Our love & thoughts are with all of you,
Ken, Helene, Shelly, Shawn & Greg Olma

Tribute from Phil and Michelle Mavis

Relation: Friends

It is with great sorrow that we received news of Drew's passing. In the short time that we knew Drew, he took us under his wing and provided us with helpful advice for our business and offered friendship. "You sit and listen, I'll talk" Drew would say and he would provide us with a lot of guidance for us to make our café a better place. Drew always shot from the hip and we always knew where we stood with him. In this increasingly artificial world, Drew would never sugar coat anything to make you feel good. He was honest and to the point.

Drew's last bit of advice, was to hang a blackboard featuring our blended drinks and iced coffees and Italian sodas. "How can you sell those things if nobody knows you have them" Drew would comment each visit.

The summer had come and gone and Drew was getting his final treatment by the time I FINALLY had the chance to hang the board. I asked Ian to tell Drew to get out of the hospital soon so he could see the board in place. I couldn't wait to tell him about the sales we were getting even as the weather got colder! Unfortunately, Drew passed away before he had the chance to see that I did what he told me to do. With each Italian soda, iced coffee or smoothie that gets ordered, I think of Drew.

We will always think of him and what a great friend and mentor he was to us.

Respectfully yours,

Phil and Michelle Mavis

Tribute from Bill and Eleanor Whyte

Relation: Friends from the golf course

Drew had a wonderful warm attitude towards all the members at the golf club. We only knew him for a short time but we felt he was a great friend. His innovations in the dining area made our club a more friendly place. He will be missed.
