

REMEMBERING
Lorne Dale Sparks

September 26, 1935 - March 9, 2010

Sparks, Lorne Dale: 26 September 1935 - 9 March 2010.

"Do not go gentle into that good night. Old age should burn and rave at close of day; Rage, rage against the dying of the light" by Dylan Thomas.

If a life can be measured by the number of people touched, then Lorne's was a life well lived. A pilot, a teacher, a farmer, the captain of his own ship, he followed his dreams and met life's challenges with intelligence and heart. Lorne was a very proud husband, father, grandfather, and great-grand father. He loved his teaching career and had a great impact on his students, many of whom later became his friends. Lorne began life in a small prairie town and ended it in Chemainus, a place he grew to love. The people, the life-style, the ocean - he loved it all dearly. Lorne was a generous person who will be remembered by all whose lives he touched. He left life as he lived it - with dignity and an uncompromising integrity. We love him. We will miss him. Lorne, you will live on in our hearts and in our minds. What wonderful stories you leave us to tell. There will be a gathering held in Edmonton in early May.
