

REMEMBERING

Lynda Joy Schwarz

September 17, 1951 - July 25, 2016

Schwarz, Lynda Joy (Sept 17, 1951). Departed this world on July 25, 2016, reuniting with her eldest daughter, Krista and youngest, son Michael. She left behind her daughters Christina and Erin and granddaughter, Nadja. Lynda had two passions in life: her children, and horses. She had endless love for her kids and would do anything for them, never asking for a thing in return. Horses were her therapy, got her through rough times and brought peace into her life. Nadja was her favourite person, her pride and joy. Lynda was the most selfless and giving lady. She always gave someone the benefit of the doubt, would give the shirt off her back to anyone who needed it, including lending money she didn't have to complete strangers. When she set a goal, nothing would stop her at trying to achieve it. She was smart, funny, talented and beautiful and by far, the strongest lady amongst us.

Her life seemed, at times, to be a trial, but she was always determined, fought hard and kept on going. Losing Michael was the final hurdle, and she eventually succumbed to a broken heart. Those she's left behind are not to be sad, but to be honoured to have known her and to gain inspiration from her. She will so deeply be missed by Christina, Erin and Nadja, but forever in their hearts. Thank you to the staff at CDH, Dr. Seymour and to our close friends for your support. A celebration of life will be held in September. "The times we cried, the times we fought and the times we laughed… For if you always think of me, I will never have gone.' Be at peace Mom, dancing in the sky with your babies.
